

In an era when many ISPs are struggling to grow their businesses and fend off competition, it's not enough any longer to grudgingly offer a managed Wi-Fi solution, rather, forward looking ISPs are working to go where the puck is heading, which in 2017 is the Connected Home. This session talks about the coming IoT wave in the Connected Home space and how to transition from playing defense to offense.